

UNDERLINE

The Underlined garden aims to frame the landscape border, emphasizing the character of a simple division that separates crops, gardens or paths. Like in a text, the underline highlights a word. It displays a bold presence in the piece of paper, often in an eye-catching color that draws the observers' attention. Hence the chosen species display red as a strong reference to text underlines, and so do the borders.

There are many ways to underline, this proposal chooses three: a single thick line, a double line and a dashed line. These lines, built in different materials and height, bring different luminosity and brightness to the garden. The interplay between the hues of red of the foliage and flowers, the transparency of the methacrylate dashed line and the red opaque grass, makes the wander through the garden an astonishing experience based in color.
