

The photos show installation made in the nature or a park during projects in 2025. There are huts made of branches, rope and grass.. Inside are hanging some pieces of wood painted white. These are sound aoods serving as a xylophone which visitors can be played by mallets. The last object on the left side (made in Georgenthal/Thuringen/Germany) is made from willow. It will make roots and grow. So this is a living hut. We will use villow for three such 'huts' standing close to each other. But every 'hut' with alittle bit another shape. For the xylophones will want tu use for every object another hard wood. So there will be three different sound characters. And we will use climbing plants. Another plant for every hut which has other blossoms with other colors.
